Kate mcCane,

In my role as a mother I think you don't love Madeleine.

I feel the need to protect that little girl against you.

This feeling is with me for a year and it has not changed.

A loving mother of a missing girl continues to talks to her daughter as if she's still with her.

Everyday.

A good mother talks about life, school, little girls' behavior, family, holidays, tv, nice people... and even the future....

A good mother - with some money - invests this in sending familiar, reassuring & comforting messages to her daughter and even her kidnappers.

A good mother wants her daughter to be save in the hands of strangers.

A courages mother even tries to instruct the kidnappers of her daughter on 'how to educate her child'...

'The spiritual touch can bring the girl save home'.

Strong believers rely on the Forces of Mother Nature, on large sets of lines to travel on for the goals of life.

Church, silence or community-life are a few examples for distributing Love over sets of lines to a missing girl.

What have you given Madeleine over the last year?

You claim she's still alive.

You say she's in the claws of a predator.

You make Madeleine watch you on tv or on the Web, while you compare her with an animal.

'A three-four-years old girl is aware of the differences between a human being and an animal'.

You don't pay attention to this thinking-pattern in your daughter.

You are not exactly a truth-teller, aren't you!?

I'm a strong believer. Mother Nature is in charge.

I'm also a truth-teller, what has given me a unique position on Earth.

I'm the first woman - ever - who has started a lawcase against the NL-parliament with the International Criminal Court.

I'm a good social-thinking mother, despite the fact I live without human rights, or money.

The World is aware of me...

And so is the Universe!

I'm inspired by the Forces of the Universe.

Can make thoughts blow with the wind.

Can instruct people far away from me.

Can love mankind throughout the atmosphere.

Can make dictators obey me.

Can even arrange my own marriage-to-come with a man from upstairs...

Can smoke out the Vatican, while I can't travel much further than my computer.

Can make a priest die in the future.

Can talk to little girls missing on Earth....

I have asked Madeleine only to talk to spirits who care for her in a healthy nurturing way.

One day she was with me, like a mother is with a daughter...on a pleasant evening...both at home...

I explained to Madeleine - as if she's my own daughter - why she may not listen to you anymore.

I have given this letter to you a thorough thinking-pattern, long before I intended to send it ...
What to say to you? What to leave out?

I did say enough.

Whatever you do, Madeleine will never come back to you.

Her spirits are with More Honest People, Worldwide.

Her soul is not found, yet.

But she will be...

Than she shall be nurtered by the People from Honesty.

Dead or alive, is irrelevant.

The Universe is already a good care-taker for her...

Mother Nature loves her.

She doesn't need you anymore.

She doesn't want to be reduced to an animal by her own mother & father.

She doesn't want to be hidden behind parents who suffer from dissociation.

She doesn't want to be a Fata Morgana in the brains of caring people, fooled by you.

She neither want to live in hatred generated by you in the media, especially for her disappearance....

There are More Honest People looking on the streets for her human body.

There are More Honest People on the Web, guiding her to the Planet for More Honest People.

Than she will be found, be brought home to Mother Nature in the Universe.

Her only true mother...

Kate McCane, you are not intelligent enough for your own daughter.

She knows who Everything is...

A survival-tactic given to her by the Universe.

Because she's a missing girl on Planet Earth, thanks to her so called 'mother'.

I know that she knows..., my own mother tried to kill me when I was 17 years old.

Madeleine can see, that I know... 'She knows ... Everything...'.
